Dear parents/carers,

This has been an excellent first full week back at school. All the children are very engaged in all of their learning connected to this term's topics. I hope that you have had a chance to look at the termly curriculum maps that were sent out last week so you can have a really good idea of what the children are learning and how you can help.

I have also been very impressed with how the children continue to show such positive attitudes to their learning. They embrace the concepts of how we learn at Wootton and it has been incredible to see how children are proud of making mistakes because they understand that this is part of the learning journey. Please ask your child/children what marvellous mistakes they made today.

Collective worship with Rev Stephen Coe

Thank you to Stephen for leading the collective worship today. He told the story of Lazarus with the help of the children and we were all very proud of how well the children in Little Gems listened to the assembly today and how well they have taken part all week. Well done Little Gems.

Best wishes,
Charlie Pitt
